

On Saturday, July 17 the world lost a selfless man, a dedicated husband and father and a kind spirit with the sudden and tragic death of Abbott House Board of Directors member Theodore A. Wilson.

"It's difficult to offer a fitting tribute to a man who was so many things to so many people," said Abbott House Board of Directors Chairman Joseph M. Pastore, Jr. "Very simply, Ted was a good person, a wonderful family man, an excellent professional, a generous civic servant and a devoted member of the Abbott House Board for over 35 years. Ted leaves a legacy of lifetime selflessness and service. It is our hope and expectation that such legacy will allow current and future generations of the Wilson family to celebrate his life for years to come."

"Like so many of the people Ted touched during his life on this earth, I'd like to extend my deepest condolences to his friends and family in this time of grief," Abbott House President & CEO Claude B. Meyers added. "Our thoughts are with his wife Tumika, their children and grandchildren as we join them in remembering the life of a man who lived for others."
